Introduction

The inspection was carried out by one of Her Majesty's Inspectors and an Additional Inspector in one day.

Inspectors evaluated the overall effectiveness of the college and investigated the following issues: standards and achievement in 2007, the effectiveness of the sixth form, target-setting with students, sharing best practice in teaching and the role of middle managers. Inspectors collected evidence from lesson observations, assessment data, documentation and meetings with key staff, governors and students. Other aspects of the college's work were not investigated in detail, but inspectors found no evidence to suggest that the college's own assessments, as given in its self-evaluation, were not justified, and these have been included where appropriate in this report.

Description of the school

The college is larger than average and serves Branston and the surrounding area. The proportion of students eligible for free school meals is below average. There are few students from minority ethnic groups or with English as an additional language. The proportion of students with statements of special educational need or with learning difficulties and/or disabilities is broadly average. The college became a specialist Business and Enterprise College in 2002. There is a strong programme of extended and community services.

Key for inspection grades

Grade 1	Outstanding
Grade 2	Good
Grade 3	Satisfactory
Grade 4	Inadequate

Overall effectiveness of the school

Grade: 1

Parents praised the college in their response to the questionnaire. They felt that 'the college has improved immeasurably in recent years' to become 'a well-respected place of study'. Students are 'valued as individuals, rewarded for their achievements' and supported 'through excellent pastoral care to achieve their best'.

The college provides an outstanding quality of education for its students. It has made continuous improvement since its previous inspection through the very clear vision provided by the Principal, senior staff and governors, and which is shared by all staff. Students enter the college with attainment that is broadly average. By the end of Year 9, they achieve standards that are above average. Standards by the end of Year 11 have improved year-on-year and are now well above average across all indicators. Almost all students achieve five or more qualifications at GCSE level and three quarters achieve at least five higher grades. Students, including those with learning difficulties and/or disabilities, make outstanding progress from their starting points to achieve challenging targets. Staff provide excellent support for those who find learning or organisation difficult to ensure that they achieve well. As a result, the college has reached and surpassed the targets set as part of its Business and Enterprise status.

Students are polite, friendly and have positive attitudes to the college and each other. They have an impressive understanding of different cultures. Behaviour in lessons and around the college is excellent. Students very much appreciate the system of rewards and state that this has played a major role in improving classroom behaviour. Students feel safe. Bullying is rare and students are confident that teachers deal with it effectively. Attendance is excellent and the college has highly effective monitoring procedures. The elected College Council and 'Every Student Matters' group take great pride in their responsibilities. They feel that their suggestions and opinions are listened to and acted upon, reflected in recent changes to the canteen and recycling initiatives. Students have an excellent understanding of how to lead healthy lives and there is a high participation level in physical education (PE) and sports activities. They make positive contributions to the community at large but there are fewer opportunities within the college for students to take responsibility. Work experience, vocational courses and enterprise activities linked to the college's specialist status prepare students well for their future economic well-being.

Parents commented on the 'many fine and enthusiastic teachers' at the college. Senior leaders have successfully improved the quality of teaching and learning and it is now outstanding. Teachers have very good subject knowledge and plan lessons thoroughly, using a good variety of activities. Students enjoy their learning most and thrive where activities are practical and exploratory, ensuring that they gain a full understanding of what they study. Relationships are very strong and students trust their teachers. Assessment is rigorous. Teachers set clear targets for students and review their progress regularly. Students have a very good understanding of what they need to do to improve. Information and communication technology (ICT) and other supported learning programmes are used very effectively to ensure that the

Effectiveness of the sixth form

Grade: 3

The sixth form provides a satisfactory education for students. They enter with attainment that is just below average. Standards in 2006, although average overall, varied considerably across subjects. Standards in vocational subjects were broadly average. The improvements in 2007 confirm that the college has successfully begun to address the dip in standards, which occurred after 2004, and that there is now a rising trend. Students make satisfactory progress from their starting points on entry to the sixth form and their achievement is satisfactory. Students' personal development is excellent and they speak very highly of the support they receive. Students' progress is tracked against their targets well and preparation for higher education is good. However, the college recognises that tutors could provide more focused guidance to students on their progress. The excellent curriculum provides students with a broad and balanced education. The compulsory general studies, active tutorial work, work experience and PE is a strength of the curriculum. Teaching is at least satisfactory and there are increasing examples of good teaching. However, students are not provided with sufficient opportunities for independent learning and supported study and this affects their understanding in some subjects. The senior team know the issues that face the sixth form and have implemented curriculum change and effective systems for reviewing the quality of provision. There are convincing plans for further development and student numbers are rising. Leadership and management in the sixth form are good.

What the school should do to improve further

- Improve standards and students' progress in the sixth form.
- Ensure that there are greater opportunities for students to develop the skills of independent learning in the sixth form and across the college.
- Develop opportunities for students to take more responsibility within the college.

Dear Students

Inspection of Branston Community College, Branston LN4 1LH

As you know, I recently inspected your college and this letter summarises the results of the inspection. However, first, I would like to thank you for your co-operation during the visit. My colleague and I were very impressed with those of you that we met and we valued your comments and opinions. You represented the college extremely well.

The inspection found that yours is an outstanding college overall. You make excellent progress through to the end of Year 11 and standards are improving each year. Your behaviour and attitude to learning is impressive. You get involved in a wide range of activities and events. You benefit from a wide range of courses, particularly those based around business and enterprise. You generally receive very good teaching and there is excellent support for your learning. Relationships in the college are excellent and there is a strong sense of community. The Principal and senior staff lead the college very well. Much of this also applies to the sixth form where the curriculum and guidance are very good. However, although improving steadily, standards here are broadly average and students make satisfactory progress.

There are some areas that the college should continue to develop. Some of these issues came out in our discussions with you.

- The college should further improve the standards reached in the sixth form and the progress made by students.
- You need to develop greater skills in working independently both in the sixth form and across the college.
- The college should provide more opportunities for you to take on responsibilities so that you can display your confidence and social skills more fully.

I am sure that the college will continue to improve. I wish you well in the future.

Yours sincerely

Martin Cragg
Her Majesty's Inspector
